FROM THE EDITOR!
"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"

I have seen much joy and sadness in my life. I always knew that I would make it through the tough times. I was sure that the sun would rise again giving me warmth and hope for better days and times to return. I have seen miracles that take your breath away, moments that you had to see in person a photo could never capture the moment in all its spectacular glory. The last 4 years I have seen a great man and his family attacked by the corrupt criminal element that's in our government and our corrupt media. The devil has convinced the masses that Trump is the problem and he needs to be removed. They want this man to be broken and destroyed when he leaves office. They are making threats of going after him with false charges. They have accused him of everything they are guilty of. I feel sad when I see him standing there fighting the good fight. He never seems to tire even though I know that his energy must be dwindling. This man had nothing to gain by running for office. He had nothing to prove. He had the life that the jealous hyenas in Washington desire at any cost to the nation and its citizens. I want to thank him for all he has endured for this country and its people. I hope that when push comes to shove I can have the opportunity to step forward and look him in the eye and say, "My name is Carl Mr. President and my friends and I are here to help you lift the load that you have carried by yourself for so long!" President Trump replied "I knew you had my back, that is where I get my strength! "I knew that the good people of this country love it as I do!" It is the evil that has filled the hearts of your employees in Washington D.C. that the enemy of the righteous!"

Nick Stewart (the voice of Brer Bear in Disney's Song of the South/the character Lightnin' in Amos 'n Andy TV show), who with his wife Edna Stewart, founded the historic Ebony Showcase Theatre in 1950. Nick Stewart was an African American actor who founded Los Angeles' Ebony Showcase Theater. He was born Horace Stewart in Harlem, briefly trying his luck at boxing, took to tap dancing, and later made the rounds as a stand-up comic. Stewart used various names, including Nicodemus Stewart, in a career that began in the 1930s and lasted for decades. He made his first movie appearance in 1936's Go West Young Man. The voice he contributed for the character of Br'er Bear in the 1946 animated film Song of the South lives on in Disneyland's "Splash Mountain" ride. But his life's work was with the Ebony Showcase Theater, which he and his wife, Edna, founded in 1950. He started the theater with money he earned playing the janitor Lightnin' on Amos 'n Andy in the early 1950s. "His life was that theater." Actors such as John Amos, Nichelle Nichols and Isabel Sanford gained early experience in the mid-city theater, which performed shows from The Odd Couple to No Exit to Carousel. It gave Blacks a chance to play non-stereotypical roles and show them as actors. Sometimes they were all Black casts, other times they were integrated casts. The Black stereotypes of Amos 'n Andy have long since come under criticism. Of her father's role, Valarie Stewart said he was a pioneer who came up from the streets of New York and it was "a part that was a steppingstone that enabled so many thousands of people to get opportunities." The Ebony Showcase Theatre and Cultural Arts Workshop, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) non profit charity that has helped thousands of people of all ages and backgrounds from 1950 to the present.

Pamela's World!

Hello my friends,

This is a time to get smart about YOUR LIFE, this virus is very real! People touch everything & that means Money passes through so many hands. I'm more aware of my actions, before I leave my home, I make sure to have my mask, hand sanitizer & I always carry water in my car. This virus doesn't care if you're a republican or democrat, the color of your skin or where you live. It is an invisible enemy. But on the other hand, staying at home alone is also dangerous. Loneliness can bring on depression & or even thoughts of suicide, maybe your gaining a few pounds or drinking more alcohol? Pick up the phone & reach out to each other & stay present, stay positive, because
