FOOD FOR THOUGHT!

One has to live in the present. Whatever is past is gone, whatever is future is beyond one's reach, until it becomes the present. Remembering the past and giving thought to the future is important, but only to the extent that they help you make the most of your present.

FROM THE EDITOR!

"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"

To start with I would like everyone to remember the little children and teachers that were brutally murdered at Sandy Hook School. Any time of year this is horrific, but especially at Christmas, this is unimaginable. With the thought of this crime fresh in mind, the legislators in Sacramento are going to come up with a new gun control plan to keep this from happening in California. Good luck with that, these idiots are the only people I know who can screw up a steel ball bearing with a rubber mallet!

On a national level, the physical cliff is quickly approaching and the bus has no breaks. My thought is, if I were driving, put the pedal to the metal and lets see how far we can fly before we hit bottom. You would think that the American Citizens would come forward and demand a quick and accurate resolution to this ever escalating problem. The problem is that the Government can't or won't control spending. They don't care how much we offer up, they just keep spending like there is not tomorrow. If they were working in the private sector, they would have already been fired. The people who voted to keep these idiots in charge need to book and appointment with Dr. Phil.

Next Tuesday is Christmas and the following Tuesday is New Years. I hope that each and everyone of you have a wonderful Holiday. I noticed this year while shopping that more clerks are wishing their customers a Merry Christmas, which is refreshing. I for one think that when we change tradition to referring to this time of year as Happy Holidays we lose more and more of what made us great. Just think back to your childhood how happy you were looking at the lights and the smell of freshly baked sweets filled the air. Be grateful that you know what I refer to. The our new generation will not have this to remember.

I would like to hear your thoughts 760-298-0902
