FROM THE EDITOR!
"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"
 As I sat down to write this week's editorial, the Mountains began echoing with gun fire. Seems Dorner was indeed held up in a cabin, had two hostages, and then carjacked a truck from an individual. The chase went down Hwy 38 heading down the hill to Yuciapa. As the police closed in near Barton Flats, a gun battle erupted. Two Deputies were injured, and one died. I don't understand why the Deputies did not let Dorner get a few miles past this area which has cabins before confronting him. A few more miles the canyon narrows and the hillsides are almost vertical. The road could have been blocked easily both directions. Less likely to have innocent people in harm's way and safer for Law Enforcement. You would think that with the failed attempts by the police to apprehend Dorner, that they would have reevaluated their tactics. The old rule of thumb that I have always believed and lived by is, " If you are getting your ASS KICKED in a fight, your strategy sucks. I am surprised that there have not been more civilian casualties. What this man did was indeed wrong and he needs to be held accountable. But, with the lack of ability to hit their targets, I don't put much faith in Law Enforcement to protect me. It is highly possible that in shooting at a criminal an innocent bystander who doesn't make it to cover will get hit by friendly fire. Personally, I don't want either side shooting me, I don't care how friendly they are! I hope as I write these final words that this will end. The Police used Tear Gas and with that set the cabin on fire. Since they kept the fire department out, the cabin burned to the ground. Which is really bad news for the individual who owns a burned down mess. I wonder if Law Enforcement is going to cover the cost of the damage suffered due to their actions!
I would like to hear your thoughts 760-298-0902
