IZZY PET CARE
Personalized in home pet care
Hi my name is Isikuri Iniestra (Izzy), as a pet owner I know what it takes to care for ones pets, but with such busy schedules it's hard sometimes to find the time. That's why I'm here to help! As a certified care taker I'm trained to provide all kinds of service: walking, grooming, pet sitting, transport to appointments. My years of experience is not limited to my own pets. I have worked in animal hospitals and in households dealing with a wide variety of different animals. Let me be the one to make your pet happy.

The Truth be Told

By Fred Lundgren
CEO of KCAA Radio

The genetic modification of crops, like any technology, can be used for good or bad purposes. A "good" example is sweet corn that can be modified to improve both the taste and the texture of grilled roasting ears. On the other hand, some plant genetics are modified to add an insecticide to the plant that can result in frightening and unintended consequences as the effects of killing certain insects works its way through the food chain. Another GMO concern are seeds that are modified to produce plants that allow Roundup herbicide to be sprayed directly on them, thereby employing Roundup to replace tillage so the farmer can grow the crop cheaper. Another risk of GMO farming with Roundup is the creation of super weeds. You see, Roundup and similar chemicals do not kill all the weeds that grow in fields, only about 99% of them. The 1% that survives becomes increasingly resistant to Roundup and similar herbicides. This resistance comes back to haunt growers as they are forced to apply increasing applications of Roundup at higher concentrations while Monsanto attempts to strengthen or modify their toxic brew sufficient to outsmart the genetic evolution of the super weed their technology created. So, a vicious cycle is created that results in the use of more and more Roundup. Moreover, the hidden price we pay for GMO food with it's consistent dose of glyphosate (the primary component in Roundup) is its accumulation in our bodies. Mothers who eat genetically modified foods end up nursing their babies with their own contaminated breast milk, while eating the livestock that accumulates roundup from grazing treated forage. We can't turn a blind eye to this problem much longer or we will end up with a situation that resembles the widespread DDT contamination that found its way into almost every life form in the modern world from birds to bulls. I'm convinced that current GMO technology is not sustainable. At best, it's transitional. Logically, no food should be consumed by humans or animals after it's sprayed over the top with Roundup which kills all the other plant life it touches except the genetically modified crop. Hopefully, the tortured logic of "farming out a Roundup chemical jug" will end, just like the widespread use of DDT ended with an EPA ban in 1972. This can only happen if consumers wake up to the reality of what is really happening to our food production system. The alternative to GMO agriculture is an organic food production and supply chain that prices the farmers production at 100% of Parity at the first point of sale so small and medium sized farms can earn a good living for the farm family on a manageable amount of acreage instead of being forced by low and even non existent profits margins to get bigger by displacing neighbors who may have higher per unit costs. If we continue this race to the bottom with our food production system, we will pay a far greater price than the additional cost of organically grown food. The price will include an increasingly dumbed down and sick society plagued by lethargy, food allergies, learning disabilities, and rates of autism and diabetes that will soon rival cancer and heart failure. If you live in a city, you are living in total ignorance of the reality of our food production system. If you live in the country, you will no doubt know that the breath and aroma of spring that should mark the new growing each year has been replaced by the constant odor of petro chemicals based compounds that kill every living thing on the land except the GMO life forms designed by and for the chemical industry. If you a farmer who is trapped in this production system, you are probably rationalizing it or living in quiet denial. This rush to GMOs has occurred in the last 20 years as the insecticide and chemical companies have taken over the seed companies to gain control through license of America's food and fiber production system. But like the chemical industry says, "That's just one side of the story". http://www.naturalnews.com/049065_glyphosate_autism_gmos.html#
By the way, what could possibly be killing the bees?

FROM THE EDITOR!
"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"

It is really a crying shame when you hear on the morning news that other states are paying between $1.75 and $2.15 a gallon for regular. There was even talk about how it will be under $2.00 a gallon everywhere by Christmas! Everywhere except California. Why should the price drop that low? After all, the politicians know that you are nothing but a bunch of sheep that won't stand up for your rights! Brown has many things that he would like to put in place before the end of his term. After all, he and God are on a first name basis! He said that he would like to have the backing of the State Senate and Assembly, but, will put these dreams in place without them. He is like a power hungry 3rd world Dictator at this point. He knows that the "Crazy Train" will not roll, so now he is the self appointed keeper of the world when it comes to global warming. Brown doesn't care how bad he hurts the economy or the job market. This "Idiot" really believes the crap that he spouts is truth. He is demented, and in my opinion, not capable of making laws that will effect all of us. I don't know why the courts haven't brought him in for a competency hearing. If he has his way, we will suffer more that when George W. Bush ruined the global economy. I am sure that a change in the state capital and the White House are in order. Obama is going to be on a reality show about survival. That is another joke. With all the conflict in the Middle East, he can find the time to pretend he's a movie star? Michelle Obama is no better than any other wana be a reality star. When is the nation going to get things set right. This is so wrong. I think that Trump or Carson will have no trouble winning the Presidential nomination. Either of these gentleman wou perform better on a bad day, than Obama on his best. Hillary Clinton is as poor a candidate. If she is the Democratic choice we would do better electing Fidel Castro to run our country. I wonder if we are going to make it to the 2016 elections? On closing, I would like to give a shout out to Chuck and Dianne. Keep it real and looking forward to our next chat!

Stay safe and be prosperous. Also to the individuals who call in to chastise me, please do it when you are sober. You sounded like complete morons!
