Fifteen Toxic Contributions to Insane Acts of Violence

Most of us assume that school massacres are increasing in frequency, in part, because our society embraces weapons of death equally in games, sports and war. This creates a false equivalence in the immature mind that can send confusing signals about acceptable conduct. It can also plant the seeds of violence in the diseased minds of people who are too often treated with prescription drugs that may further blur the line between fantasy and reality. All responsible Americans, regardless of political stripe, are finally demanding answers for the root causes of insane behavior that leads to mass murders like the massacre in Newtown Connecticut. We all share the call to subdue America's culture of violence but we refuse to end our love affair with guns. Liberals are demanding gun control while conservatives argue that guns don't kill people; people kill people. Until recently, both liberals and conservatives have avoided a serious discussion about our societies' mental health. Hopefully, the Newtown Connecticut massacre will force the American public to confront the serious mental health problems that are growing exponentially worse with each generation. Obviously, no person in their right mind will pick up a gun, kill their mother, and drive to a school to kill over two dozen more people. This insane behavior is occurring with shocking regularity but the phenomenon is not limited to America. In China, where individuals are not allowed to own guns, the attackers use knives and hammers. In others countries, attackers use everything from gasoline to bombs but regardless of the weapon, the common element is the deranged mind of the attacker. So, what steps can be taken to curb the recent outbreak of mass murders that plague the modern world? It seems logical to confront America's culture of violence in numerous ways. This necessitates a discomfiting amount of introspection by the federal government, by the pharmaceutical industry, the medical community, the food industry, and certainly the political left and right. Let's do some easy finger pointing at possible contributing factors...

- (1) Access to converted military assault weapons containing clips with 30 bullets masquerading as target pistols and Deer rifles...
- (2) Gun shows and private gun sales that place weapons in the wrong hands;
- (3) The myopic policies of the pro-gun lobby
- (4) The FDA's friendly relationship with the pharmaceutical lobby
- (5) The lack of consistent state gun laws
- (6) SSRI's "Selective serotonin re-uptake inhibitors", a class of over prescribed anti-depressants known as psychotropic drugs
- (7) Far too many infant baby vaccinations before the age 2
- (8) America's failure to isolate causes of autism spectrum disorders
- (9) The lack of parental access to long term, in-patient, psychiatric care
- (10) Too many heavy metals in the home environment and too many household cleansers
- (11) Alcohol consumption during pregnancy
- (12) Too many chemicals and hormones allowed in our foods by USDA
- (13) The unknown consequences of consuming genetically modified foods
- (14) The long term use of "Shoot First" video games by troubled youths
- (15) Latch key children in broken homes under financial stress

Each of these toxic sub-categories are arguably contributing to the culture of violence in America. Perhaps these irrational acts of madmen are the end product, comprised of many components. Individually, each can be relatively harmless, but when combined, they create a mental bomb, waiting to explode.

FROM THE EDITOR!

"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"

Hello! I laughed my ass off when Jeb Bush was calling out Donald Trump over the statements that were made in regards to the event on 9-11-01! We are not safer, we are in more danger because of George W. Bush. Going after Bin Ladin was the cover story to invade Iraq, a country that could not harm us in any way, who was our Ally. There were no weapons of mass destruction. Rumsfeld admitted 2 years after he left office that he lied to the American People to get support for the invasion in to Iraq. We are solely responsible for the mess that is destroying the Middle East! When they called Bush and Chaney "War Criminals" they were correct. Last week an individual came forward and stated the facts about the hunt for Bin Ladin. This individual was a DRONE PILOT and claims on 3 different occasions he had Bin Ladin in his sights. He was told he was wrong with his sighting. He was told to back off. I believe him. It was too soon to take out Bin Ladin. Bin Ladin needed to be free so we could continue with the real agenda. Invade Iraq and Afghanistan. That was the goal, Bin Ladin the excuse! Notice you never hear much from G. W. Bush since he left office? Bush has put us, as a Nation, in harms way. Why should Trump back down from the truth? The double dealing of our politicians, behind the scenes and our backs, is why we are hated. Trump is scaring the hell out of all the B. S. Politicians in both parties! They can't bribe him. They have nothing to offer him since he has the funds to run for President. They know that if this Celebrity TV Star/ Businessman gets elected the "Party is over"! I have to agree with Trump, if he or any knowledgeable individual were in office in 2001 we would not have been involved in a war based on lies! I don't know if it would have stopped the attack on the twin towers, but who can say, that it would have happened either. Clinton needs to spend more time explaining the attack on our embassy and less energy on trying to "Blow Smoke" up every one's "Skirt"! And you nasty minded individuals out there that complain about my choice of verbage thought that I was going to say "ASS"! Shame on you! Bernie Sanders is a better cadidate for President than Clinton, and he is a damn Socialist! Clinton has a nasty side that she tries to keep from the public. This woman was hated by the Secret Service that was assigned to protect her. She treated them like her personal floor mats! Shame on us if we let her reach her goal!
