TREVOR'S HAPPY HOUR
WITH LYLE FENIMORE
EVERY FRIDAY 3-4pm www.kcaaradio.com

This Friday December 4th on Trevor's Happy Hour will be our guest Joan Steiger from 3-4pm "I'm still learning after all these years," says Joan Benedict Steiger. Even after a prolific career spanning stage, screen, and television – and inspiring romances with three devoted men – the veteran actress still finds each role a new challenge to experience and new terrain to explore. A dancer from childhood, Joan forged a career in show business as an actress in the early days of television, where she made notable appearances on shows like the original "Candid Camera" and "The Steve Allen Show." Dozens of television and film appearances later, including memorable stints on "General Hospital" and "Days of Our Lives," she's still dedicated to all facets of her craft, having appeared in numerous stage productions, from the classics to modern comedies to her acclaimed solo shows ("Leona," about Leona Helmsley, and her autobiographical "The Loves of My Life.") Off-screen, Joan's life has been equally charmed. Her first husband was stage veteran John Myhers, with whom Joan spent thirty years before his passing. Then, Joan was reunited with Academy Award-winning actor Rod Steiger; the two had known each other when Joan was a star-struck ingénue and Steiger the industry's hottest young performer. Now, decades later, their romance was rekindled, and the couple married, working together and supporting each other until the actor's death in 2002. Then Joan fell in love with veteran television actor Jeremy Slate, and the two spent several years together before his death. "They all passed away from different forms of cancer, so it's bittersweet," says a pensive Joan today. "But they were three of the greatest guys in the world."

Today, Joan immerses herself in every acting opportunity, including an appearance on Fox's "Dollhouse," a starring role in the feature "Dead Border," and upcoming roles in the films "Opus To An Angel" and the action/comedy "Thou Shalt Not Steal." She was awarded the "Eternity Award" for "lifetime achievements that have made a lasting contribution to the world of theatre" recently at the Los Angeles Women's Theatre Festival. She has also written her memoir, "Brooklyn Baby," a Hollywood insider's amazing journey through love, loss, and laughter which will be out this spring. Her fascinating story is filled with some of the highest highs and lowest lows that life can offer. "Brooklyn Baby" is a fascinating story guaranteed to inspire its readers and challenge all of us to follow our dreams. Remembering the past with no regrets, she looks forward to a future of even more accomplishment. Call in at 888-909-1050

Thanksgiving Is Over But "Shopmas" Has Just Begun!

"Anyone who lives within their means suffers from a lack of imagination." - Oscar Wilde If Oscar Wilde was correct, Americans have no limit to their imagination during the holiday season. The National Retail Federation estimates that over 55 percent of all holiday shoppers intended to shop for Christmas gifts during the four day Thanksgiving weekend. With almost 75 million young people under the age of 18, the pressure is really on the oldsters to deliver the "goods." See table... In too many households, gifts are charged to credit cards which can add double digit interest rates to the cost of purchases. This creates downward pressures on credit scores if cards get loaded up. According to AOL's DailyFinance, a pocket full of maxed out credit cards will devastate your credit score and the best credit score can only be maintained by limiting card usage to 30 percent of your available credit. This requires a tremendous amount of self discipline when faced with children from toddlers to teens who want the latest and greatest gizmo. To burden the obvious, the holiday season has devolved into a manipulative profit driven machine that's designed to shame us into buying things for others that we can't afford and they don't need. The herd syndrome associated with shopping on Black Friday adds an undeniable layer of stress and stupidity to our lives because we are surrounded by ads that tell us to buy, buy, buy at the same time other ads tell us to celebrate and relax. The mixed message of Thanksgiving is so absurd that to many, Black Friday has become the annual practical joke that we play on ourselves. Each year, the pressure to buy earlier and buy more increases as big retailers choose to stay open on Thanksgiving Day. Bloomberg View's columnist Barry Ritholtz called Black Friday a hoax and dubbed the time between Thanksgiving and Christmas as "Shopmas" in this article. It's time to say "enough already." Enough of the manipulation. Instead of shortening Thanksgiving to a single rushed meal between the pressures of work and shopping, let's extend Thanksgiving to include two official national holidays. Thursday will continue to be a day celebration and Friday will become the National Day of rest and relaxation. Then, start the crazed shopping on Saturday morning. NO, that doesn't translate to opening at midnight. Don't even think about it. Open the stores at 10 a.m. on Saturday MORNING. A full eight or nine hours of sleep will help everyone, thank you. Obviously, law enforcement, fire fighters, essential medical professionals and other first responders have unique responsibilities that limit Thanksgiving celebrations, but by extending the "official" holiday to 48 hours, everyone will have a better opportunity to spend a full day with family and friends while being paid for both days which is an important adjunct of the plan. Most assuredly, waiting until Saturday to shop won't destroy the business model of any retailer, all their protestations notwithstanding. If Saturday ever replaces Black Friday as the holiest of shopping days, some special name or acronym must be chosen that's befitting of it's status. Several names come to mind. Names like "Bargain Saturday," or "Bountiful Saturday" or, for the more jaded, SH*#%Y Saturday. We could throw creativity to the wind and coin the day "Black Saturday" or just shorten it to "BS Day" because BS is the acronym most deserving of the activity. Better yet, we could ignore the madness and sit on the couch with someone we love and watch it's A Wonderful Life or The Wizard of Oz

FROM THE EDITOR!
"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"

I hope that everyone enjoyed the Thanksgiving Holiday! To start with I want to give a shout out to my friend Rochelle, she is the manager at Big Lots in the Stater's Shopping Center at Navajo and Bear Valley Rd.

Obama, Brown in Paris for the Global Warming Summit! With the combined "Hot Air & Methane" that these two will be spewing, I will be surprised if they will be taken seriously! With all the turmoil in the Middle East, we are really going to make Global Warming a priority? We allow politicians to waste our hard earned tax money on nothing more than Bull Crap!!! The world is in serious trouble and we elect Morons to represent us. We have not had a politician that looked after the needs of the people since Ragan. Throwing good money after bad. The government is like a person who is hooked on gambling, just one more hand, I know I am going to win this time! Then the reality hits the next day after a night on the town, hung over, making promisses that it won't happen again. Just like the fool that gambles his rent and food money looking for the big win. Honey I'm sorry, it won't happen again! Then later that evening when the hang over has passed he heads back to the poker tables with better experience. He knows that this time he will beat the house. I don't know who is crazier? The people or the fools we sent to represent us? The media is doing everything they can to discredit Trump. They are looking at everything he says, to find evidences to destroy him as a candidate. The the other issue that is raising it head is getting rid of the First Amendment. With just the mention of such an outrageous act, no one citizen has come forward to organize a group to fight this. I don't claim to be the smartest person in the country, but how F---N dense do you have to be not to see the danger we face if this is allowed to happen? The world is going down quicker than you can imagine. Bush, Channey and Rumsfield are responsible for the situation we are in. Yet they can't me touched. We were sold out. The Patriot Act removed many of the protections we had under our constitution. If the Liberals have their way, we will continue to spiral out of control It will not be long before the nation has been weakened to the point that I.S.I.S. will have no trouble invading our country and killing all of our citizens! God help us!
