"UNSPOKEN THOUGHTS"
I would like to hear your thoughts 760-298-0902

Happy days are here again!!!! Our brave troops are coming home from Iraq. It is a wonderful thing that these brave soldiers have endured under such great pressure. I also want to say that at this Christmas celebration we take time to remember all the fallen soldiers that will not be joining loved ones at the dinner table. I know what it is like having a loved one not present. I have been a widower now for 8 months, it has taken adjustment. The ranch is still there, I'm still there, and the memories.

I still have a big hole inside of me that I try to fill by keeping myself busy. It works some what, but then there are times that the reality sets in and your world crumples around you. I want everyone who has lost a loved one to know that I without a doubt feel every bit of your pain and sorrow.

With all the excitement of so many troops coming home, no one, has mentioned the hard fact that they are coming home to no jobs, possibly no roof over their heads and no one knows what to do about the trouble we are heading into. All the crap that the media is putting out there on the evening news is a feeble attempt to make us feel like the Great White or Black Father in Washington has our well-being on the front burners. If you want the reality of it just ask any Indian. He will be glad to enlighten you on all the wonderful things that the Great White Father has done to him, I mean for him. We are now at the point that our government is stealing our homes and wealth just like the Indians 100 years ago.

In the Iowa debates for the Republican Nomination, I was please to see that Ron Paul is moving ahead. I think that this is a shock to most of the Media and Politicians alike. Maybe, just maybe this time we as a nation will get it right. We have a bad habit of electing people for their looks or the elegant way that they speak. Ron Paul is not the most well spoken and definitely not the best looking. But if there is a chance that there is an honest politician out there he might just be the one. His plan is to go back to the original constitution, get rid of professional politicians, get rid of the I.R.S., bring our troops home from around the world, close our foreign military bases, and cut off all the billions upon billions that we send to the scum all over the world. The bail outs on Wall Street rather than prison for the insider deals that take place. The hush money Bush gave the Banks to keep them quiet. The list goes on and on. We have in our government nothing but gangsters and hoods. The reason they all look so good and speak so well is that they were clothed and educated with our hard earned dollars. I wish I could send my grand children to the finest schools, get them all the latest fashions, and for sure a brand new RED SPORTS CAR as a graduation present. In the next 12 months we are going to hit rock bottom, the dollar is already worthless, they just don't tell us that so we will keep going to work and staying in line and doing as we are told. If the American People ever get their heads out of their asses, you will see a riot that will make the Mid-East look like a pajama party!
